Miller Pipeline Acquires Elcon Pipeline

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. – Miller Pipeline Corporation, one of the nation’s premier natural gas distribution, transmission pipeline and utility contractors and a wholly owned subsidiary of Vectren Corporation (NYSE: VVC), acquired Elcon Pipeline, Inc. This transaction marks Miller Pipeline’s fifth acquisition within a four-year time period and expands the company’s geographic footprint to include 23 states and 19 facilities.

Miller Pipeline acquired Illinois-based Elcon Pipeline Inc. as part of the company’s strategy to grow into new markets and strengthen its position as a leader in the underground construction industry.

“This acquisition provides Miller with the opportunity to enter a new geographic market and develop long term relationships with new customers,” said Doug Banning, CEO of Miller Pipeline. “Consolidating our efforts enables us to offer gas distribution, transmission and repair services to the utility marketplace in Illinois. In turn, it creates expanded career opportunities for the employees of Elcon and Miller Pipeline.”

“Miller has always valued its employees, safety, quality of services, integrity in management and superior customer satisfaction,” added Banning. “Together, with our commitment to these values, we will be better positioned to deliver quality solutions to our customers.”

Elcon Pipeline Inc., founded in 1978, specializes in underground pipeline construction services and is the current blanket contractor for Ameren. The company’s founder, Lowell Spencer, has decided to retire and pursue other interests. Son Troy Spencer will continue in his leadership role while Miller Pipeline will provide support to facilitate business growth.
